

World Wide Notary Announces First Complete Real Estate Closing in Texas Using the Electronic Notary Service, DigaSign.

McCulloch County Abstract and Title Company and Donald Barley, an agent of Stewart Title Company, conducted the first complete real estate closing in Texas utilizing DigaSign.

Vernon, TX—(11/05/2004) WWNotary, L.L.C. (Privately Held), the leading provider of electronic notary services, announced that on November 1st, Donald Barley Law Offices was the site of the first electronic real estate closing in Texas. According to the United States Notary Association President, Marc Aronson, this is one of about five electronic real estate closing he is aware of in the nation.

“When conducting real estate transactions with military families, we have needed signatures from all around the world including Iraq and Singapore. DigaSign makes the entire process flow much easier since the documents can be viewed and signed in a matter of minutes without the time lag and expense of traditional delivery”, said Donald Barley, agent for Stewart Title. “Utilizing DigaSign was easy to use and will save a tremendous amount of time and errors since the user signs once and their signature is placed everywhere in the contract it is needed, no missing signatures! “, said Melissa Solomon, legal assistant with Donald Barley Law Office.

“We are very excited by our first electronic real estate notarization. DigaSign’s flexible and universal interface accepts documents needing verification and notarization from any Window’s based application. There is no limit to how this application can benefit industries such as government, mortgage, real estate, legal, insurance, banking, auto, oil and gas as well as many others to save time and money”, said Bob Rice, CEO, WWNotary L.L.C.

DigaSign utilizes the latest in technology for encryption and security to ensure that documents remain confidential and can not be altered once posted. DigaSign's secure, patent pending technology exceeds Federal mandates (such as E-SIGN and UETA) and State regulations regarding Internet security, encryption, and use of electronic and digital signatures.

DigaSign will revolutionize the way notary services are provided.
